The defendant is charged with extortion in the first degree.

A person commits the crime of extortion in the first degree if, he/she knowingly obtains by threat control over the property of another, with intent to deprive him/her of the property.

- (2) The defendant did so by threat; (AND)
- (3) The defendant did so with the intent to to deprive him/her of the property.

[13A-8-1(11)]

[Read as appropriate] Commodities of a public utility nature, such as gas, electricity, steam, and water, constitute property, but the supplying of such a commodity to premises from an outside source by means of wires, pipes, conduits, or other equipment shall be deemed a rendition of a service rather than a sale or delivery of property. [13A-8-1(11)]

A threat is a menace, however communicated, to: [Read as appropriate]

a. Cause physical harm to the person threatened or to any other person;
(OR)

b. Subject the person threatened or any other person to physical confinement or restraint. [13A-8-1(14)]

c. To retain the property with intent to restore it to the owner only if the owner purchases or leases it back, or pays a reward or other compensation for its return;

e. To subject the property to the claim of a person other than the owner.
[13A-8-1(2)]

A person acts with intent to deprive another of his/her property when he/she acts with the purpose of causing that result. [13A-2-2(1)]

If you find from the evidence that the State has proved beyond a reasonable doubt each of the above elements of extortion in the first degree, then you shall find the defendant guilty of extortion in the first degree.

If you find that the State has failed to prove any one or more of the elements of the offense of extortion in the first degree, then you cannot find the defendant guilty of extortion in the first degree.

[If lesser-included offenses are included, the Court should instruct on those offenses at this point.]
