

Alabama Rules of Appellate Procedure

Rule 21.

Writs of mandamus and prohibition directed to a judge or judges and other extraordinary writs.

(a) Mandamus or prohibition to a judge or judges; petition for writ; service and filing.

(1) GENERAL. Application for a writ of mandamus or of prohibition directed to a judge or judges shall be made by filing a petition therefor with the clerk of the appellate court having jurisdiction thereof with certificate of service on the respondent judge or judges and on all parties to the action in the trial court. The petition shall contain, under appropriate headings and in the order here indicated:

(A) Table of Authorities. A table of authorities, including cases (arranged alphabetically), statutes, and other authorities with references to the pages in the petition where those cases, statutes, and other authorities are cited;

(B) Statement of the Case. A statement of the case, indicating briefly the nature of the case, the course of proceedings, and the disposition in the court below, with appropriate references to the appendix (see subparagraph (F)). A statement of the case should also identify the adverse ruling or rulings as to which review is sought, with a reference to the pages of the appendix at which the adverse ruling or rulings can be found;

(C) Statement of Facts. A statement of the facts necessary to an understanding of the issues presented by the petition;

(D) Statement of Issues. A statement of the issues presented and of the relief sought;

(E) Statement Why Writ Should Issue. A statement of the reasons why the writ should issue, with citations to the authorities and the statutes relied on; and

(F) Appendix. An appendix including copies of all parts of the record that are essential to understanding the matters set forth in the petition, such as the order or orders of which the petitioner seeks review, all court filings (by any party) directly connected to the order or orders, and any transcripts of proceedings that resulted in the order or orders. The appellate court may, in its discretion, direct any deficiency in documents included in the appendix to be corrected or the petition dismissed. The appendix shall contain an index listing separately each document in the appendix. The appendix shall be separated from the petition by a divider or tab, and each document within the appendix shall be separated by a divider or appropriate tab to identify and assist in locating the documents.

(2) DOCKET FEE. Except in the court of criminal appeals, the petition shall be accompanied with payment of the docket fee as prescribed in Rule 35A to the clerk of the appellate court. Upon the filing of the petition, the clerk shall docket the petition and submit it to the court.

(3) TIME FOR FILING. The petition shall be filed within a reasonable time. The presumptively reasonable time for filing a petition seeking review of an order of a trial court or of a lower appellate court shall be the same as the time for taking an appeal. If a petition is filed outside this presumptively reasonable time, it shall include a statement of circumstances constituting good cause for the appellate court to consider the petition, notwithstanding that it was filed beyond the presumptively reasonable time.

(b) Denial; order directing answer. If the court is of the opinion that the writ should not be granted, it shall deny the petition. Otherwise, it shall order that an answer to the petition be filed by the respondents within the time fixed by the order. The order shall be served by the clerk on the judge or judges named respondents and on all other parties to the action in the trial court. All parties below other than the petitioner shall also be deemed respondents for all purposes. Two or more respondents may answer jointly. If the judge or judges named respondents do not desire to appear in the proceeding, they may so advise the clerk and all parties by letter, but the petition shall not thereby be taken as admitted. The clerk shall advise the parties of the dates on which briefs are to be filed, if briefs are required, and of the date of oral argument. The proceeding shall be given preference over ordinary civil cases.

(c) Other extraordinary writs. Application for extraordinary writs other than those provided for in subdivisions (a) and (b) of this rule shall be made by petition filed with the clerk of the appellate court having jurisdiction thereof with proof of service on the parties named as respondents. Except in the court of criminal appeals, the petition shall be accompanied with payment of the docket fee as prescribed in Rule 35A. Proceedings on such application shall conform, so far as is practicable, to the procedure prescribed in subdivisions (a) and (b) of this rule.

(d) Form and length of petition and answer; number of copies. The petition and any answer to the petition shall comply with the provisions of Rule 32(b)(3) governing form and shall not exceed 6,000 words (30 pages for a petition or an answer filed pro se), as also provided in Rule 32(b)(3).

In the Supreme Court, when the petition or answer is filed in the traditional paper format, one (1) additional hard copy of the petition or answer, including any supporting briefs or attachments, shall be provided to the clerk of the Supreme Court; when the petition or answer is e-filed in accordance with Rule 57, two (2) additional hard copies of the petition or answer, including any supporting briefs or attachments, shall be provided to the clerk. In the Court of Civil Appeals and the Court of Criminal Appeals, only the original petition or answer, regardless of whether it is filed in the traditional paper format or e-filed, is required. However, an appellate court may direct that additional hard copies be furnished.

(1) A decision of a court of appeals on an original petition for writ of mandamus or prohibition or other extraordinary writ (i.e., a decision on a petition filed in the court of appeals) may be reviewed de novo in the supreme court, and an application for rehearing in the court of appeals is not a prerequisite for such review. If an original petition for extraordinary relief has been denied by the court of appeals, review may be had by filing a similar petition in the supreme court (and, in such a case, in the supreme court the petition shall seek a writ directed to the trial judge). If an original petition has been granted by the court of appeals, review may be had by filing in the supreme court a petition for writ of mandamus or prohibition or other extraordinary writ directed to the court of appeals, together with a copy of the proceedings in the court of appeals, including the order granting the writ.

(2) Such review in the supreme court of a grant or denial must be commenced by filing the petition in the supreme court within fourteen (14) days of the grant or denial of the writ by the court of appeals. Procedures on such review shall conform to the provisions of subdivisions (a), (b), and (c) of this rule where those subdivisions are applicable.

(3) Without regard to whether the court of appeals has issued an opinion, rehearing may be sought in the court of appeals, but if a rehearing is sought, then review in the supreme court shall be by petition for writ of certiorari pursuant to Rule 39; provided, however, that a party that has begun the Rule 39 process by filing an application for rehearing can withdraw that application and seek review by the supreme court under this rule instead of under Rule 39, if the withdrawal of the rehearing application is made within the fourteen (14) days allowed by subsection (e)(2) for seeking supreme court review and before the court of appeals has ruled on the application, and provided further, that a petition allowed by (e)(1) is filed in the supreme court within that time.

(4) The term “extraordinary writ” within the meaning of this rule encompasses the situation where a party seeks emergency and immediate appellate review of an order that is otherwise interlocutory and not appealable. This rule does not apply to those cases where review in a court of appeals is normally had by way of an extraordinary writ. Such excluded cases include review by certiorari of decisions of certain administrative agencies, and review of decisions of the three-judge Jefferson County panel or decisions of the Jefferson County Personnel Board. A petition under Rule 32, Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure, is not an “extraordinary writ” within the meaning of this rule.

(f) Effect on Trial Court Proceedings. The petition for a writ under this Rule shall not stay proceedings in the trial court unless the trial judge or an appellate court shall so order.

(g) Petition for Writ of Mandamus, Writ of Prohibition, or Other Extraordinary Writ Requesting Emergency or Expedited Relief. In addition to the other requirements of this rule, in non-death-penalty matters, if the petitioner requests emergency or expedited relief from an appellate court, the petitioner shall include the information required by Rule 27(e).

Committee Comments

Rule 21, while changing the language of the former Alabama Rule 14, does not change the substance of procedure except in one aspect. If the judge who is named as respondent does not desire to appear in the proceeding, he may so advise the clerk of the appellate court and the parties. His failure to appear does not admit that the petition is to be granted. This provision simply recognizes the reality that mandamus proceedings are in most instances adversary proceedings between the parties to the litigation below, and that the judge is really a nominal party rather than an active party. There are, however, instances in which the judge would consider that he is directly affected and would wish to appear, and the rule permits this. Since the counsel for the opposing party ordinarily files the brief for the judge, this practice would be given a straightforward literal application rather than continuing in the guise of a proceeding in the judge's name. See Form 19 for petition.

The existing presumptions in favor of the correctness of the recitation of facts in the answer to a petition for writ of mandamus will continue in force, but can be controverted as under existing law. See, e.g., Ex parte Helbling, 278 Ala. 234, 177 So.2d 454; Ex parte Waldrop, 228 Ala. 38, 152 So. 44; Ex parte State ex rel. Atlas Auto Finance Co., 251 Ala. 665, 38 So.2d 560; Wilson v. Brown, 241 Ala. 178, 1 So.2d 914; Pillans v. Johnson, 262 Ala. 689, 81 So.2d 365.

Committee Comments to Amendments to Rule 21(a) and 21(e)(4)
Effective September 1, 2000

A petition for a writ of mandamus should be filed without unreasonable delay. Evans v. Insurance Co. of North America, 349 So.2d 1099, 1101 (Ala.1977). The amendment to subsection (a) adds three sentences relating to the time allowed for filing a petition for the writ of mandamus or prohibition; its effect is to incorporate into the Rules of Appellate Procedure the requirement that a petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition be filed within a reasonable time. This amendment also modifies the title of section (a) to reflect this addition.

Little precedent exists on the subject of the timeliness of these petitions, probably because the courts have published few decisions explaining the denial of a petition. A petition for a writ of mandamus based on a trial court's failure to rule on a matter does not have a benchmark date from which to begin measure a reasonable time. Thus, this amendment, setting the presumptively reasonable time within which to file a petition, will not affect the determination of what is a reasonable time for filing a petition based on the failure to rule. However, where the petition for the writ of mandamus challenges an action of the trial court, the amended rule adopts as the presumptively reasonable time the 42-day period for appealing from a final judgment in a civil case, unless the time for appeal is shorter, pursuant to a rule or a statute (see, e.g., Rule 4(a)(1)), in which case the shorter time becomes the presumptively reasonable time. See Evans, supra, at 1101 (respondent's motion to strike a petition for a writ of mandamus was denied where the petition was filed within 42 days, the time allowed for taking an appeal, and where there was no unreasonable delay on the part of the petitioner or prejudice or other circumstances showing unreasonableness). For examples of appeal times shorter than 42 days see Rule 4(a)(1)(A)-(E) of these Rules.

In a particular case, an appellate court may find a petition challenging a ruling of the trial court to be untimely even though it is filed within the time for taking an appeal, as, for example, when the petition is filed shortly before trial, yet several days or even weeks after the adverse ruling. Consequently, the better practice is to include in the petition a description of the circumstances constituting good cause for any delay, although the amended rule mandates such a showing only when the petition is filed beyond the time for taking an appeal from the ruling.

To determine whether the circumstances warrant the appellate court's accepting a petition filed beyond the presumptively reasonable time established in this rule, the court should weigh factors such as the prejudice to the petitioner of the court's not accepting the petition and the prejudice to the opposing party of the court's accepting it; the impact on the timely administration of justice in the trial court; and whether the appellate court has pending before it other proceedings relating to the same action, and as to which the jurisdiction of the appellate court is unchallenged.

This amendment also requires that the statement of the reason why the writ should issue include citations to the authorities and the statutes relied on.

The amendment to subsection (e)(4) replaces the reference to Rule 20, Temporary Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure, with a reference to Rule 32, Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure. The amendment also deletes the suggestion that contempt orders and workers' compensation cases can be reviewed by certiorari. Review of contempt orders is by appeal. See Baker v. Heatherwood Homeowners Ass'n, 587 So.2d 938 (Ala.1991). Effective July 1, 1994, Rule 33, Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure, was amended to apply only to contempts arising out of criminal cases. Contempts arising out of civil cases are governed by Rule 70A, Alabama Rules of Civil Procedure. Also, pursuant to Act No. 92-537, § 26, Ala. Acts 1992 (codified at § 25-5-81(e), Ala. Code 1975), review of workers' compensation cases by the Court of Civil Appeals is by appeal, rather than by certiorari.

Court Comment to Amendment to rule 21(a)
Effective June 1, 2005

Rule 21(a) has been amended to add a table of authorities to those items required to be included in a petition filed pursuant to this rule. The only other change to Rule 21(a) is in the organization of the rule.

Committee Comments to Amendment to Rule 21(a)(1)(E)
Effective August 1, 2015

Rule 21(a)(1)(E) was modified to require a separate appendix filed with all petitions for a writ of mandamus or prohibition. The purpose of the appendix is to permit the parties to prepare and transmit copies of those portions of the record deemed necessary to an understanding of the issues presented. The Committee suggests that the documents in the appendix be separated into volumes of no more than 200 pages. The appendix should include an index to the documents contained in the appendix and should be divided to identify and assist in locating a specific document. The hard copy of any appendix and documents should be divided with tabs. In lieu of tabs, any appendix filed electronically should be demarcated by cover sheets that clearly identify the particular document that follows (e.g., "Exhibit ____" or "Tab ____").

Committee Comments to Rule 21(f)
Effective January 1, 2018

Rule 21(f) states that the pendency of a petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition or another extraordinary writ does not automatically stay proceedings in the trial court. Instead, a party must move for a stay that may be granted by the trial court or the appellate court in which the petition is filed.

Committee Comments to Amendment to Rule 21(a)(1)
Effective April 1, 2020

The amendment adds the requirement that a petition include a statement of the case. This will aid the appellate court in determining the nature of the case and the procedural history of the litigation in the trial court leading up to the filing of the petition.

This amendment also clarifies that an appendix should have both a numbered cover sheet and a tab for each document. For paper copies, the tab should protrude from the side of the paper so that a reader may easily access the document under that tab. For electronic copies, each tab should be reflected as a "bookmark" so that the reader may click on the bookmark to access the document under that bookmark.

Committee Comment to Amendment to Rule 21(d)
Effective October 1, 2020

Rule 21(d) has been amended to provide a word limit for most petitions and answers consistent with the amendment to Rule 32, but to retain a page limit for petitions and answers filed pro se.

Committee Comment to Amendment to Rule 21(a)(1)(F)
Effective January 1, 2021

Rule 21(a)(1)(F) has been amended to clarify that the documents from the trial court's record to be made part of the appendix to the petition include the order or orders for which the petitioner seeks review and all filings by any party directly connected to that order or those orders. The amendment also clarifies that the appellate court may direct that any deficiency in the inclusion of documents in the appendix be remedied or the petition will be dismissed.

Committee Comments to Adoption of Rule 21(g)
Effective August 1, 2021

Rule 21(g) has been added to aid petitioners in obtaining expedited relief from an appellate court in an emergency (i.e., extraordinary circumstances in which waiting for the normal timing of the appellate process could render relief inadequate). The additional information to be provided by a petitioner requesting expedited relief is listed in Rule 27(e).
