

Rules of Procedure of Judicial Inquiry Commission

Rule 19.

Right to relief from violations of these rules by commission.

Any judge who is the subject of investigation by the commission and who claims to be aggrieved by any violation of these Rules may petition the Supreme Court directly for relief. Any judge who is the subject of prosecution by the commission may petition the Court of the Judiciary for relief and, if not satisfied with the Court of the Judiciary's action on such petition, may then petition the Supreme Court for relief. Such a petition shall be denominated "Petition for Relief," and a copy shall be served on the commission.
